

Hey, it's me, back again. I'm all well and sound, thanks for asking. I'm on, watching some TV shows, or maybe eating. Maybe the other thing. I'm super busy, to tell you the truth, but I'm still writing out each day. I'd like to post something for you to read on the day you comment, if that's okay. I'm just... Frank Sinatra Showtimes Watch or Listen to Frank Sinatra Showtimes Frank Sinatra Tickets Frank Sinatra was the leading American singer of the mid 20th century. Biography Frank Sinatra was born into a middle-class family in Hoboken, New Jersey, on March 15, 1905. His father, also named Frank Sinatra, was a traveling salesman of Italian origin; his mother, Dolly, was of Polish descent. The family lived in Hoboken until his father was transferred to St. Louis. His parents had several more children, most of whom did not reach adulthood. It was in St. Louis that Frank Sinatra was given his first lesson in show business. As a young boy he was recruited by a local vaudeville agent to perform in an amateur show. He would play the piano while his mother sang. At age 9, Sinatra moved with his family to New York City. His career in show business took off when he was hired as a baritone for the vaudeville act Nellie Dexter and Her Rhythm Boys. In 1924, the family moved to Miami, Florida, where Frank was employed in the real estate office of his mother's brother, Fred G. Boehm. In that year, he appeared in his first film, Baby Face. Sinatra went on to lead a famous, varied and successful career as a singer, actor, director, producer, and author. He was one of the most popular and influential performers of the last half of the 20th century. He was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1987, and into the Grammy Hall of Fame in 2013. Sinatra received nine Tony Awards, including two Special Tony Awards. He sang in more than 1,800 films, as well as numerous stage plays, during his career. His songs included "My Way," "Moon River," and "Come Fly With Me." His movies included "From Here to Eternity," "Some Came Running," "High Society
