A: You can set the destination folder of your download through the file manager or using the terminal with the command: `curl -O` This will open the file manager on your computer and allow you to browse to the URL, click download and then you can change the default download location with a drag and drop to another folder you have set as the download folder. If you want to set it permanently, you can set it through the terminal in your download folder: `sudo mkdir /path/to/desired/folder` then `sudo chown -R root:root /path/to/desired/folder` and then change the permissions with `sudo chmod -R 777 /path/to/desired/folder` If you don't use the `chmod` command, you'll have to manually change the permissions afterwards. You can also use the same thing for the save operation. Work-related musculoskeletal symptoms among office workers in India: a cross-sectional study. To estimate the prevalence of musculoskeletal symptoms in workers employed in different industries and sectors of the economy in India. A cross-sectional study of 10,350 randomly selected office workers. The following parameters were collected by means of a questionnaire: sociodemographic characteristics, type of work, working hours and duration, duration of exposure to specific work postures, working conditions, and prevalence of musculoskeletal symptoms. Musculoskeletal symptoms were defined as those reported by the workers in the previous 12 months. The crude prevalence of musculoskeletal symptoms in the study population was 58.6%. The major symptoms were neck pain (24.3%), shoulder pain (13.1%), and upper back pain (12.2%). Among the 11 types of symptoms analyzed, the highest crude prevalence rates were for shoulder pain (15.2%), neck pain (11.2%), backache (11.3%), knee pain (11.5%), and hand pain (10.3%). Most workers (86%) had symptoms for more than 3 months, and most (69%) reported that these were a great or considerable problem. Longer duration of exposure to particular postures and working conditions was associated with higher prevalence rates of musculoskeletal symptoms. Musculoskeletal symptoms are an important health problem among office workers in India. The findings of this study are likely to be useful in developing 2d92ce491b
