.- ActionParsnip: I'd double-check the rar. Might help. ActionParsnip: i am not getting any output when i do service stop gdm jhutchins: rar is a solid option too, thanks how can i debug service stop gdm? ehsan, why do you want to stop gdm? ehsan: is the service running? OerHeks, i want to change screen resolution from terminal gdm is login manager in ubuntu so how can i debug it ehsan: why? I always do it from the command line ehsan: What exactly are you trying to do? ActionParsnip, i tried but i am not getting any output when i run service stop gdm how can i debug it? @ActionParsnip ehsan: How about trying sudo service gdm stop? the_bot, i want to change resolution of my monitor with an application ehsan: Sorry, I'm not familiar with this. 'stop' makes it go down, if you want to force stop,'sudo service gdm stop force' OerHeks, thank you it worked have fun but i don't understand why i don't get any output in terminal is there any reason why i should not use'stop' ehsan: Not sure. ehsan: Someone else might be able to help. I'm afraid I don't know enough about how Ubuntu runs. Hello, I have two Ubuntu VMs and was wondering if there was a way to make one have dual monitors
