I want to build a web application that uses sharepoint server, I've a few questions related to this Q.1 What is the difference between sharepoint site and sharepoint subsite? Q.2 When to use sharepoint site and when to use sharepoint subsite? A: SharePoint sites and subsites are one in the same thing. "Subsite" was a new term introduced with SharePoint 2010 (long before this was called sites), and I think was intended to mean a 'child' site of a parent site. The parent site could be a single site collection, or a site collection with multiple sites, or a site template with multiple sites. A subsite is a subsite of a site. As far as your question about usage... I guess the best way to describe it would be to point out the differences. The first is that subsites can only be created inside a site collection. That means you have to create a site collection that contains the subsites you want, and then create subsites inside that site collection. You can create the site collection first, but then the subsites need to be created inside the site collection. A site is simply a parent site of a site collection. You can create a site collection first, or you can create sites inside a site collection. A: I think it's worth mentioning that subsites are also available in an App for SharePoint. This means that you can create subsites just as well in your app as you can in SharePoint. The App also supports the concept of Site Definition (SDC) that is used to define the creation of subsites. This is documented here: From the above link: In App for SharePoint, Site 2d92ce491b
