Erythropoietin is a glycoprotein hormone involved in hematopoiesis and bone marrow function. It has the potential to be used in the treatment of a variety of conditions of bone marrow hypo- or aplasia. The recombinant protein has been shown to promote red blood cell survival and regeneration of reticulocytes in human patients undergoing chronic renal failure, and its use has been approved by the FDA. EP 0517341. Recombinant human EPO (rHuEPO) has been used in the treatment of anemia in human patients. The treatment of patients suffering from chronic renal failure who have been transplanted with allogenic grafts have been approved. See Prescription Drug User's Guide, 2007, pp. 66-67.
