If you have a number of photos on your computer and you're sick and tired of running out of space, then you need to pay attention to this article, as you can learn several tips on how to delete unwanted files and increase the available space on your drive. Stop your PC from running out of memory It's a common phenomenon that your PC struggles to find enough memory to function properly. This problem has nothing to do with you or your computer, but rather, it is caused by the fact that your software eats up your RAM. If you have a slow PC, a tablet or even a smartphone, then your device starts running out of space when it runs out of RAM. In this case, it will show you the error message that the system is running out of space. In order to fix this issue, you need to understand what software eats up your RAM and how it makes your computer run slow. The most common culprits are the applications you don't need anymore. For example, if you still have an application you used a few months ago, then it might still be running in the background, thus causing your PC to run out of memory. Another important factor is the amount of data that you store on your PC. If you still have an old photo, document or other files, then you need to clean them up and delete the unnecessary ones. Restore the drive If you notice that your PC is running out of space even though you don't use any software that would make it run slower, then it's possible that your hard drive is damaged and you need to back it up and restore it. To do so, you need to buy a new hard drive. If you want to be quick about it and save money, then you can go to your local computer store and ask them to suggest you a suitable drive. Go to the Control Panel Go to the Control Panel, click on the System and Security icon and then click on the System icon. Press the Change button. Select the Advanced tab. Check the option that says Disk Defragmenter. Use the Disk Defragmenter. Use the Disk Cleanup Go to the Control Panel, click on the System and Security icon and then click on the System icon. Press the Change button. Select the Advanced tab. Check the option that says Disk Cleanup.
