If you want to access many network without altering the MAC addresses of the NICs, then use this tool...” I think this tool is quite helpful for the new users as well as the advanced users who want to permanently change the MAC address of their adapter without using any other methods. You may need to use the networking software or the instructions provided by the hardware manufacturers for the permanent modification. I was able to quickly change the MAC address from 0x2E0 to 0x0E6 and the MAC address remained changed after restarting the system. I couldn't change it back to 0x2E0 though. It's a bit confusing. That is the reason why I used to recommend the manual spoofing technique. If you are facing issues with changing the MAC address permanently, then you can reset the adapter to the factory settings using the below-mentioned instructions. “Software for hiding MAC address on Windows 7/XP/Vista... Hide the MAC address of your Network adapter from Windows 7/XP/Vista... Hide the MAC address of your Network adapter from Windows 7/XP/Vista... Hide MAC address from Windows XP/Vista... Why hide MAC address on Windows 7/XP/Vista...? You are trying to connect to a network, but you can’t connect to the network since your MAC address is different. As a result, you get a blue screen error and have to restart the computer. After restarting the computer, you can go back and try to connect to the same network. This time, you can connect successfully.” “How to hide MAC address on Windows XP/Vista/7... The MAC address is like the IP address. Some firewall applications will refuse to connect to network devices that share the same IP address. For example, if you
