KeyMACRO is designed to make keyboard macros a much easier task. Features include creating automatic macros for repeating keyboard actions, or making macros for repeatable keyboard actions and drag-and-drop macros. Every macro is initiated with a single keyboard command. These are combined using various logical and arithmetic operators to create powerful macro sequences. Sequences can be defined with any number of actions using any combination of characters and operators. Macro commands can be reordered using any logical operator. KeyMACRO also lets you define macro scripts that can be run on specified target apps. For example, you can have a script that performs a series of actions on a document or a website using a selection of data from the clipboard. You can even use the Find function of the selected app to identify the data. This way, you can run a script whenever you find a set of data that meets a certain criterion. Some other features: + An ability to have many sequences of actions and to reuse them many times + Allows you to define and reuse multiple sequences of actions + Quickly runs a macro script on the selected text + An ability to have multiple windows active at the same time + Uses the basic Windows dialogs for input and output + Supports multiple fonts, colors, effects and layouts + An ability to define and reuse macros on any actions + An ability to define a macro to run on a selection of data Clear & Organise Your Inbox Effectively With Inbox Count App Are you getting fed up of sorting your mail into piles based on subjects, or deleting them? Or perhaps you don't know how to store your mail in a way that is most effective? Well, with this app, your mail will be sorted into folders, so you don't have to remember how you stored it in the first place. What's Inbox Count? Inbox Count is an app that automatically assigns emails that are received to different folders in your mail client. What's cool about it is that it can group messages based on content. So for instance, if a sender sends out two messages to different groups of people with a message body that is the same, only one message will be in a single folder. This way, you don't have to waste time and effort on sorting them and you know what to keep and what to delete. Benefits of Inbox Count The main advantage of this app is that it makes your life easier. It automatically sorts your mail into different folders based on what
