UPDATED - NOW WITH CUSTOMIZABLE LANGUAGES! Video Converter/Encoder (Adobe Premiere) Audio Editor (Adobe Audition) Video Editor (Adobe Premiere) Media Converter (Intellivideo) Automator Organizer/Library So, can it deliver? The question is simple. Can it actually deliver? The answer is, yes. In fact, Zeus Bundle has been used by a number of groups to create videos for their presentations. One such group, a video production company, was able to use the program to edit a video and, in short order, capture an audiotrack as well. Another group used it to create an intro for a presentation, using the real-time voicerecording feature to provide live vocals. The Video Converter While any software designed for video editing needs to be able to handle various formats (MP4, AVI, WMV, etc.), you'll need to go on to the Paid version for the video converter, however. For our purposes here, there are four sections of the program. Video Converter Part of the reason why we chose to go with Zeus Bundle was because it includes an audio/video converter tool. The first thing you'll want to do is to drag the file you wish to convert to the window. You can convert the file to any of the four most popular formats: MPEG-4, MOV, AVI, and WMV. As the output, you can select where the file will be stored. All options are provided in the Converts options dropdown menu. By default, the program will save the file in the same folder as the one it's being converted from. Once saved, you're provided with a preview to view. If you have a large number of files to convert, or are having some trouble, you can also change the output filename. For instance, you may want to have the file saved with a timestamp so that you know when it was converted. The Audio Editor Once you've converted all of your files into something manageable, you can open the Audio Editor. Here, you can add effects to your audio files. These include, among others, bass, reverb, gain, equalizer, pitch shifting, and so on. As with the video conversion, you can also edit the file name of your output audio file by
