Changes in serum levels of cytokines and growth factors in chronic idiopathic urticaria. Chronic idiopathic urticaria (CIU) is an inflammatory skin disease characterized by the presence of wheals and angioedema. These symptoms are accompanied by serum levels of several cytokines that are increased in atopic dermatitis. To investigate the potential involvement of serum cytokines in CIU. In this study, we measured serum levels of interleukin-4 (IL-4), IL-6, IL-10, transforming growth factor-β (TGF-β), tumor necrosis factor-α (TNF-α), and vascular endothelial growth factor (VEGF) in patients with CIU and healthy volunteers. There were no differences in the serum levels of IL-4, IL-6, or IL-10 between patients with CIU and healthy volunteers. However, serum TGF-β and VEGF levels in patients with CIU were significantly higher than those in healthy volunteers. These data suggest that increased serum TGF-β and VEGF levels may be closely associated with the pathophysiology of CIU.Obama: US will stay in Afghanistan President Barack Obama announced that the US would maintain its forces in Afghanistan after NATO allies agreed to keep the majority of the troops after the end of 2014.
