permission denied errors from the Import/Export service. I assume I need to give my Lambda function IAM permissions to do this. I've set the Role attribute to role with full control. My lambda function is written in Python. I assume I should set the function's role to the same as the S3 bucket policy, but I'm not clear on where that is configured. Any guidance would be appreciated. A: S3 can be used as a blob store, but you can't, from an outside entity, make a GET or a PUT request to an object in S3.

You can only get the contents of an object via a bucket policy that grants the right to that object to the role that is specified in the function configuration. The role you specify for the Lambda function can be granted at run-time, or you can assign it at function configuration time. To grant permissions at run-time, you can use the Parameter Store feature to assign the role to the Lambda function at run time.
