G2019S: clinical aspects and therapeutic implications. Several investigators identified mutations in the Leucine-rich repeat kinase 2 (LRRK2) gene that cause familial forms of Parkinson disease (PD). LRRK2 encodes a protein of 2735 amino acids that is expressed mainly in the brain and contains two GTPase domains, GTPase associated and WD-repeat domains. The encoded protein is implicated in the pathogenesis of PD, as several studies suggest that LRRK2 is linked to PD pathogenesis. This review will summarise the pathogenic effects of LRRK2 G2019S in the context of the proteins main role and the considerable research efforts being devoted to understanding how this mutation leads to neurodegeneration.
