DevDir is a lightweight software to manage a full list of software development projects. Features include: - Creation of a full directory listing with customisable columns and rows - Easy batch or script file opening - Customisable software development projects - Quick searching by keyword, file name or content - User-friendly file opening - File and folder monitoring - Automatic search for changed files - Managing the views and settings - Executing/monitoring commands (on both single files and directory levels) - Safe and secure file upload (via FTP or SFTP protocols) Detailed description: DevDir is a software to manage a full list of software development projects. It does not only add the functionality that a file manager usually provides, such as file and folder viewing, monitoring, quick search, folder listing, creating, removing, moving and renaming files, but it adds support for customisable and safe database projects. Each customisable directory entry displays various information about a specific file, folder, or, by using a user-definable list, a full list of a specific content type. Since many of the features require a specific directory entry, the application is not limited to listing all files and folders only. The software can be used to: - Create and save a full directory listing with customisable columns and rows. - Organise customisable directories by splitting them into smaller project-groups. - Quickly create a directory of a customisable type or a full directory listing on the fly. - Create a database project. Listing, renaming, creation, removal, file monitoring, directory operations (move, copy, rename, delete,...) are all supported. - By providing a list of different file types, the application offers a quick and safe file upload. - Execute commands (batch/script file opening) on single files and folders in a directory, in all directories or on the directory level. - Monitor files or folders for changes by displaying changes as badges on the directory's/project's icon or within a specific directory listing. - Automatically search for changed files and folders on the directory level. - File and folder monitoring. With the monitored files/folders, you can get a detailed view of the most frequent activity and the last modification time of each file. When it comes to configuration settings, you can display/hide several elements from the main window: - Full directory listing on startup, - Automatic search by keywords or 09e8f5149f
