In the fortune telling system there is no need to calculate your birthday or date, but, in the main, the number, color and shape of the hexagrams are the only things to be calculated. Each letter of a hexagram has a meaning: the first represents the cardinal direction, the second - the 4 directions, the third - the 2 primary emotions and the last - the 12 secondary emotions. If you don't have enough experience in this process, here is a very convenient and practical source for beginners. Some of the hexagrams and meanings can be found on the following link: Notice the hexagrams numbered from 1 to 59 are the major hexagrams which are used to answer the question and, therefore, determine the subject of the fortune telling. The minor hexagrams numbered 60 to 124 are needed only for the types of questioning of the particular subject by revealing the context. For the time being it's enough to choose the main hexagram, i.e., to mark from 1 to 59 in it. You will then use the second hexagram to make a simple guessing. Below you'll find a special list of hexagrams: Hexagrams 1 - 29 are a subset of major hexagrams - they are called the "grand hexagrams" and are used to answer a more general question. Hexagram 30 - 50 are the "further hexagrams" and are suitable for a guessing to a more general subject. The hexagrams 51 - 60 are the "lower hexagrams" and they are used for guessings to a subject more narrow. With every hexagram the signs of the next are indicated in the lower row. If you want to change the number of the hexagram, please click on the yellow arrow button.

1. THE GREAT HEXAGRAM Great fortune: The hexagram 1 is called "The Great Hexagram" and it's used to discover an unlimited future. In this case we can't speak about the subject which would be totally determined by the hexagram: it's just because the hexagram 1 is in itself an uncertain destiny of the future. This hexagram is the most suitable for the Fortune

Language: English Version: 1.0 Language/Version combo must be unique, so you can't use more than one language version for each version of the game. This means that if you use the latest version of the game for multiple languages, you can't use any other language versions for this game. As part of the project, you will be having to develop an application (including website) to help people communicate their wishes in the upcoming coronavirus lockdown and at the same time allow people to make bookings for the required space in their homes. The application will be usable in both PC and mobile (Android/iOS), and will communicate with the backend via a REST API. We need to build a database of the people whose wishes can be fulfilled. This database should be easy to maintain and not very difficult to get up and running. The whole system will be developed as a new WordPress website. There is a new theme provided to us for this, and it's already pre-built, so we just have to implement it. This is a huge project.

It's not a one-man job - we are a team of developers. What we can offer you: - We can offer you (and you can select from a list of four options): 1. Do it yourself (you can do the project yourselves and work in-between with us) 2. Hands-on (we will be working with you as we go) 3. Separate project (you can select a project to work on with us as part of this project) 4. Separate project with an existing developer (we will work with you as a team on a separate project) What we can expect from you: -

You must have some knowledge and experience with WordPress (we will be helping you with the technical stuff) - You must have an understanding of REST APIs

- You must be able to work with front-end developers (you will be working with us on some front-end stuff) - You must be able to communicate with the WordPress technical team The Front-end developer will have to create the widgets and pages for the administration side, as well as creating a very user-friendly admin dashboard. Once the user interface is finished, we will work with the API provider (with whom we have already spoken about the details) to develop the data layer (this will require you `77a5ca646e`)

Trying to understand the future events using the help of fortune tellers and find the best decisions for our life. In the first case the fortune teller reads a set of hexagrams which means to change the 6 positions of them (hexagrams have six positions). The winner is the combination with the most positive sum of the positions. In this case, the fortune teller tries to find a hint which will help him to guess correctly what will happen in future. By the end of the fortune telling the fortune teller will be able to give predictions and advice. In the second case, the fortune teller uses his own knowledge and tries to match the given hexagrams to a set of hexagrams he know from the Chinese philosophy, called I-Ching or Book of Changes (the Book of Changes is about the change from chaos to order). What's New in the?

Fortune Telling is an ancient technique of prediction based on the interpretation of ancient Chinese hexagrams. The hexagrams of the I-Ching are more than 2,300 years old. The Chinese say that there is an infinite supply of this hexagrams. The I-Ching gives predictions of more than 30 aspects of life (for example: fortune, wealth, luck, protection, health, work, money, career,
