
Guzheng Vst 'LINK'

Nu Guzheng is a traditional Chinese plucked guzheng zither. This traditional instrument was recorded in stereo using a pair of Blue spark capacitors. The zither that was used in this case was obtained by layering three instruments, including cymbals and zither, on the same timbre. This experiment was recorded using a microphone and a frequency conversion system. As a result, new tonalities were discovered in the sound, which would be difficult to detect using traditional instruments. In this experiment, we used one of the best Chinese zithers made in Hong Kong.
