1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a device for detecting a state of a movable member, and more particularly, to a device for detecting a posture of a movable member, such as a hand of an operator, a hand operating an external apparatus of a motor or the like.

2. Description of the Related Art In general, various devices are provided in a vehicle (e.g., an automobile) or an electronic apparatus to help the user to easily operate the external apparatus. For example, a device for detecting the posture of a hand of an operator to help the operator to easily operate the external apparatus provided in an apparatus body of a vehicle, which is disclosed in Japanese Unexamined Patent Publication No. 4-314097. The device for detecting the posture of the hand of the operator includes a pair of arm-receiving portions, which are disposed on both sides of a table, and a free end of an arm which is put on the table when the hand of the operator is put on the table. A transparent member is provided on the table at a position facing the arm-receiving portions. A position detecting sensor is provided on the transparent member and is capable of detecting whether or not the arm is put on the table. The user puts the free end of the arm on the table and depresses the arm-receiving portions. When the arm is put on the table, the arm pushes the transparent member to move in a direction in which the position detecting sensor is exposed. When the arm is not put on the table, the transparent member does not move even if the free end of the arm is put on the table. Consequently, it can be determined based on whether or not the position detecting sensor detects movement of the transparent member that the arm is put on the table. In the device for detecting the posture of the hand of the operator, the user carries out, from the outside of the apparatus body, an operation such as press operation and touch operation. Therefore, when it is determined based on whether or not the position detecting sensor detects movement of the 6a5afdab4c
