What's New In Adobe Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.1.1)?

I wish that the internet would all just stop treating me like shit So I have spent the last day or so trying to get my final project from my portfolio presentation due tomorrow finished so I can upload it to the portfolio server. I tried to do it yesterday, but my computer was being a dick and not letting me upload stuff to the server. I had to use my laptop, which wasn't having an issue, and I couldn't manage to get the files off my main computer and onto the laptop. So the whole thing went over the stupid line and I now have a 3.3 gb size file that only contains one photo, one still, and text. And now I have to redo it tomorrow. So the whole thing went over the stupid line and I now have a 3.3 gb size file that only contains one photo, one still, and text. And now I have to redo it tomorrow. Oh I know how you feel. There is a reason that an adult class is so hard in photography and I understand why you can't do your session and upload right now. But you're showing it at the end of the semester when there aren't going to be a lot of people there so it shouldn't be such a big deal. I'm very sorry you're having to go through this. I'm sure the other photographer wouldn't mind. I'd be more than happy to help out. Ok, so I've finally figured out how to redo the part of the presentation and upload it to my site, but I totally fucked up the pictures. I took photos for the presentation, which I tried to use, and then I made a bunch of new ones for the final slideshow. I put them into the original template (the one I had for the presentation) but I didn't have them sized properly, so they were way too big
