It is a low-cost service that provides greater flexibility for the user to create and print professional-looking graphic documents. AELP technology has an easy-to-use interface, and it enables the user to print on various types of paper from 20 lb to a heavy bond (or matte) paper. This system is geared to eliminate the need for a separate print terminal (as is the case with USB/network terminals). The AELP prints on gloss, matte, and transparent media. It can also print on both sides of a standard envelope (and on a CD or DVD as well). AELP also provides features such as finishing, borderless printing, duplex printing, and cropmarks. AELP provides the most economical, easy, and convenient method of printing images on a printer or network. It can also be used as a stand-alone printer for its own network. ## Ghostscript Ghostscript is an open-source (free) software that converts files from other formats (like Postscript, PDF, or Encapsulated PostScript) to a format that can be read by any PostScript-capable device. It can also print using one or both sides of the paper. Ghostscript prints a wide variety of files such as: * Commercial artwork * Commercial printing * Photographic images * Line drawing * Documents * Spreadsheets * Images * Vectors * Animations (Flash) * Images (Picture Files) * Graphics and icons * Graphics (Ink and Toner Cartridges) * Batch printing * Multi-page and multiple-job printing You can use Ghostscript to print a variety of image files, such as: * Images (JPEG, JPEG 2000, and TIFF) * BMP * GIF * PCX * PDFC * PNG * JPEG
