Please rate 5 stars. At this time, this is my first experience with Coolmuster. I have to admit it's pretty good. Very simple, quite useful but not difficult to use. Thank you for your rating this app. I try to use only their app. I mean it, no other. I use imo only one other software. I cannot believe that you do not want to rate this app. If you are satisfied with the app that means to you, then this rating is really unfair! If there will be no way to choose this app's rating, please help me to change it. Thank you in advance! Like it but it would be better if it would automatically set the title attribute to the file name instead of the file path. I have a lot of files with the same names (and the same file paths) on my computer and it is kinda hard to distinguish them in the list. Great app, even has "tips" to help you get you started, but one thing I wish it could do is to allow you to set it so the output JPG's are always at the same resolution. I have a lot of scripts that I want to run at different resolutions and save them all as JPG. The default is to use the first available size, and I have to use a list of sizes to do this with. This does not work if the JPG's I save are actually all the same file size, although the original size would work. Just update your app. A forced resizing was added. I'm using this app for the past 2 years with success. Now, it's just simply the best. Thanks for the continuous work. I love it. I am not sure how to download in Windows 8. I just download, it will keep opening another window for extracting the files. Also, I wonder why I have "heic.zip" instead of

HEIC format when I click "Save". You can use this method directly in Coolmuster by right-clicking on the file(s) that are open within Coolmuster and selecting EXPORT >
