Alex DeMetrick has the latest on the 24-year-old accused shooter. At the crime scene, investigators haven't provided much information on who fired the shots. All they've said is that the three people killed were in the two vehicles. However, the driver of the second car was found dead. Detectives believe they know who the shooter is, but they're not saying right now. "We have an individual who we believe is responsible for this. They're charging him on nine different charges," Lt. Fredrick Schubert said. Officials have described the suspect as a 24-year-old Baltimore man who has no prior criminal history. He was taken to the hospital after being shot and is now in police custody. Police say the shooting erupted at a Motel 6 in the 3300 block of Old Court Road, where a group of people had come to meet with others. At least 12 law enforcement officers answered the scene, as well as several rescue units and Bomb Squad. Police say they shot out a window at the motel to try and rescue a woman who was shot inside. This video shows damage at the scene: "This is a very, very violent situation and the most dangerous
