- MagicMusic is an intuitive and easy to use tool that enables you to create a customized playlist of your favorite songs by dragging and dropping text files containing the title of the songs, a YouTube video and a song URL into the application. - Once you choose the playlist you want to create, it will automatically query Google to find the respective song title and the corresponding YouTube video for your song. In cases where a song cannot be found, the application instead accesses the first YouTube video for your song. - You can create as many playlists as you want and you can also modify the order in which the songs in each playlist will be played, as well as the default text that will be automatically inserted into the text files you drag onto the program. - MagicMusic also allows you to customize your playlist's display by setting the name and/or file extension for the resulting playlist file. This way you can have multiple playlists for the same songs without needing to rename the resulting playlist files each time. - If a song you wish to use is no longer available online, you can insert a local file as a replacement. Furthermore, you can prevent the program from using the default browser and instead use your favorite one, providing an additional security layer. - MagicMusic works under Microsoft Windows XP, Windows Vista and Windows 7. SnapShot Activation Download

SnapShot allows you to capture the screen of your computer in several methods. It can be easily used by individuals of any experience level. The interface of the program is plain and simple to work with. So, SnapShot allows you to capture the full screen, active window or rectangle (by making a mouse selection). In addition, you can include the mouse cursor, copy image to clipboard, send it to the image editor, Paint or via email, upload the picture via FTP and enable automatic exit. In the "Preferences" area you can enable SnapShot to minimize to system tray on startup and to keep it minimized after capturing, play a sound after capture and to stay on top of other processes. But you can also adjust the JPEG quality, specify the default file type for attachments and uploads, set the delay time and choose the color of the rectangle box (when making the selection), and more. The simple-to-use program runs on a very low amount of system resources, includes a well-written help file in a plain text document, supports several keyboard shortcuts, has a good response time and didn't freeze, crash or pop up errors during our tests. However, SnapShot doesn't offer any extraordinary features. We mainly recommend it to novices. Download: Rating I've been using Snapshot for about three months. My first impressions of the program were good. I liked that it captured the screen in a clean way, and that I could get it to do exactly what I wanted it to do. The best part was the auto-exit feature. The program just shut down and I didn't have to do anything. The program also had a feature where I could customize the rectangle box around the mouse cursor, but there was no mouse cursor. I wished that they added it back in. Other than that, everything was good. There was only one thing that was a little irritating. The program didn't stay minimized in the tray as it should have. I was constantly having to double-click to get it to open. I wish it would stay minimized in the tray, but it's a minor problem for me. Rating I've been using Snapshot for about three months.
