Both of the results on the search engine today had ads. The first was for a service called Credit Sesame, an education-free financial education site. The second was a promo for the search engine MyHands, which provides a new way for people to buy and sell "Made for You" products. "Let your creativity fly and make your own products, services and experiences at Home Depot," said the President's missive. "And if you have a big idea, meet us at #H2D2 to exchange ideas with other inventors and entrepreneurs." Thanks, Google.
