It is located on the north coast of the island of Crete, in the western part of the Rethymno regional unit. The population of the town is about 750 and the mayor is Spyros Sefkopoulos. During the European migrant crisis in 2015, the local fishermen attempted to block people from fleeing from Italy and from northern Africa to the island of Crete. The mayor of the town was accused of collusion and released on bail. After the crisis the harbor area of Mytilena was closed and its facilities nationalized by the Greek authorities; the locals did not agree to the closure and began a sit-in protest to challenge it. The situation was resolved and the harbor area was reopened to the public on December 6, 2015. Name In Greek the name is Μύτιληνα, from Greek μύτης meaning hedgehog and άνα, anata meaning "she" or "her". The Turkish version Mutliyena is mostly used in the area. Location and facilities The town is located approximately 3 km southwest of Rethymno and has an approx. sea depth of 20 meters. It was originally a small village in the center of 3e33713323
