After that, I want to get each elements position so I can compute distance between each of them in order to remove them from the layer. I need it for a progress bar, so it's the position of each LineString in the Layer. I'm using this simple code: public void removeFromLayer(Layer layer){ LineString line = layer.getFeatures().get(0).geometry();

What's New In?

Sonne Screen Video Capture is a video recording tool designed to help you capture any area of your desktop. It sports a clean and intuitive GUI that allows users to start a recording session on the go. The program is able to record the screen, DV or TV activity, as well as capture other devices. Sonne Screen Video Capture enables you to opt for a full screen recording mode or a user-defined region, which can be selected by using the mouse cursor or specifying the coordinates. What's more, you can choose the video codec, audio format, frame rate and playback rate, as well as enable or disable the audio recording and adjust the volume. This cross-platform application can take snapshots which can be saved to BMP or JPG. It comes packed with an auto saving feature for taking snapshots, and you can specify the time interval and number of frames to be captured. Moreover, it is possible to append a prefix to the files' name, pick the BMP format, and resize the pictures. When it comes to image settings, you can adjust the level or brightness, contrast, saturation and hue, pick the rotation angle, and flip the images. Additional settings allow users to minimize the program on the recording mode, capture the mouse cursor, and assign a hotkey for the video capture. You can review the video below. No video playback problems. It works like a charm. I get good quality videos, even at high resolutions. I have set it to capture my whole desktop. The programs interface is very easy to use. However, there are a few areas where improvement is needed. First and foremost:the program is hard to control the video recording time. I had to click several times on the'save' button. I think this is the result of a software upgrade. Another area where improvement is needed is the sound recording. I use a DV camcorder and I don't hear the sound in the video. The sound level is really low. It could be easily set to zero. Finally, the program should have an option to show the input source. I find that when I have set my output to a DV camcorder it adds a 'DV' to the program name, which is really annoying. The program's interface is well designed and intuitive. The only thing that bugged me is that there is no shortcut to switch to desktop view. It has some obvious shortcomings (I'm looking at you - no screengrabbing, no sound recording, no full screen recording at all, no cross-platform, no DV capture). It also has a lot of features that you'll never use, or you'll need to spend a lot of time to get
