Supreme Court of Arizona, En Banc. September 25, 1991. *33 Rayes, Ring, Pappas & Baker by William F. Ring, Tucson, for plaintiff-appellee. Robert S. Stenson, in pro. per. FELDMAN, Vice Chief Justice. The issue in this case is whether the trial court properly dismissed the defendants' counterclaim. The trial court dismissed the counterclaim on motion because it was not signed by the person signing the answer. The court of appeals reversed. 155 Ariz. 274, 746 P.2d 1314 (App. 1988). We have jurisdiction under Ariz. Const. art. 6 § 5(3) and A.R.S. § 12-120.24. The opinion of the court of appeals is approved. We vacate the judgment of dismissal and remand for further proceedings. The complaint alleged that Abbott and Stenson were tenants in common and that Abbott was entitled to possession on his proper

Stenson also alleged that he and Abbott's mother had been making repairs to the premises. The property was a dependency home owned by Abbott's mother. In his answer, Stenson alleged that the mother had breached her duty to perform her obligations under the land contract. For this alleged breach, Stenson sought $2,340. He also alleged that Abbott had injured him when Abbott had beaten him on the premises and had subsequently forced him from the property. Stenson sought compensatory damages for physical and emotional pain and suffering and punitive damages of $500,000. In the counterclaim, Stenson alleged d0c515b9f4
