serial number keygenCataract surgery in young children.

Cataract surgery for childhood cataracts may provide an opportunity for rehabilitation of the visual system in children as well as for the preservation of at least some of the visual capacity. It is not always possible to perform cataract surgery with the many technically demanding features of the disease process in children; however, sometimes it is, and this will be discussed. Complications associated with capsulotomy are a particular problem in children and will be discussed in some detail. There are certain congenital conditions in which surgery is impossible.

Florida man fatally shoots alleged cop killer 'PEOPLE AROUND HERE KNOW EACH OTHER' Florida man fatally shoots alleged cop killer Stephen D. Moore Published 8:00 pm CDT, Saturday, June 30, 2005 A Miami man took the law into his own hands and gunned down a fellow citizen Saturday as police closed in on a group of people who shot and injured two Miami-Dade officers who responded to a complaint about gunshots at an apartment complex. Marlon Cardoza was arrested later that day on a charge of murdering one of the wounded officers, and two others were arrested Sunday on charges of attempted first-degree murder. Cardoza, 23, did not testify at his scheduled bond hearing Monday. But defense attorney Bob Monette said Cardoza's intention was not to kill anyone and that he doesn't think his client will be charged with murder or attempted murder. "I suspect he had no idea there were police officers behind the fence," he told the judge. "He never expected to have a shootout. I don't think he would have done it if he knew there were police officers there." Carlo Curley was charged with firing two shots at the officers, who had responded to the 15100 block of Northwest 79th Avenue after receiving a 911 call to report a man with a gun at 1:15 a.m., Miami-Dade Police Maj. Luis Manzano said. He said the man -- who police had chased into a nearby complex -- fired several times into the officers' vehicle. Police officers arrived to find several people trying to follow the man, who had run through the building's backyard toward a
