Gene B. JACKSON, Appellant. No. 43246. Supreme Court of Nebraska. November 19, 1981. *747 Dennis R. Keefe of Mattoon, Mattoon & Keefe, Ashland, Neb., for appellant. Gerald D. Ladwig of Ladwig & Ladwig, Wahoo, Neb., for appellee. Heard before KRIVOSHA, C. J., and BOSLAUGH, McCOWN, CLINTON, WHITE, HASTINGS, and CAPORALE, JJ. KRIVOSHA, Chief Justice. The defendant, Gene B. Jackson, appeals from a judgment of the district court for Dixon County, Nebraska, in favor of the plaintiff, Richard A. Martin, for $3,000 plus interest, for personal injuries sustained in an automobile accident. The issue on appeal is whether or not the district court erred in setting aside the jury verdict returned in favor of the defendant and his codefendant, Lee C. Ball, a minor, as being contrary to the evidence. The accident involved here took place in Dixon County in the early morning hours of September 10, 1974. The automobile owned by the defendant Jackson was the first of several vehicles to enter the intersection of T-29, a county road, and Nebraska Highway No. 49, a state highway. The front end of the Jackson automobile crossed the center line of the highway and into the path of a pickup truck which was being driven by the plaintiff. As a result of this collision, the plaintiff sustained various injuries to his left leg, including a fractured femur in the area between his knee and ankle. The defendant testified that he stopped at the stop sign on T-29, that he proceeded into the intersection looking in both directions and that he did not see any traffic approaching. It was the plaintiff's testimony that he was traveling at a reasonable speed, that he made a left turn at the stop sign, and that he was hit by the front end of the Jackson automobile as he started to pull into Highway No. 49. The negligence of the defendant is not in dispute. The defendant contends, however,

Most studies analyzing post-traumatic outcome have focused on outcome at hospital discharge. Data about long-term outcome in the community are sparse. The aim of our study was to assess clinical outcome in the community at two years follow-up. A nationwide multi-centre prospective study was conducted (the Trauma-Brains Study) in two years after a trauma to the brain. The cohort included people treated for major trauma with their first episode of brain injury. Face-to-face interviews were conducted with survivors and in the case of loss to follow-up by interviewing proxies. Outcome measures included: general health state, cognitive status, activities of daily living, work status, living situation and perceived risk of re-injury. We included 1167 participants (72% men). Mean age was 42.6 years (SD=17.3 years); 92% were injured in a traffic accident d0c515b9f4

Inc., a company owned and managed by Mike Groves." "The insurance company would not pay for any of the cost to rebuild their home, so we took them to court," said Tom Crouch. "The insurance company said to me: 'Well, we need to go through with the project,'" Groves said. "There was no way for me to get out of it." "We had this argument for an entire day," Groves said. "I was unable to persuade them not to go ahead with the project." "Well, that's when I decided to fire my attorney and deal with this on my own." "I had to make a number of phone calls, and I called several attorneys and sent my insurance company several e-mails," Groves said. "But I got nowhere." Groves turned to Crouch, who said he "didn't have a clue about the building code," so he had to learn everything about the process over a period of several months. "Tom and I talked to lots of people," Groves said. "We knew what we wanted, and we knew how to build it." "So we contacted the construction company and said 'We're ready to buy this thing from you.'" Crouch said he and Groves talked
