The Photoshop help file is what most photographers will use to teach themselves or a client how to edit an image. Let's dive in and get started! The Photoshop help file is huge, and it contains a wealth of information about working in Photoshop. When you click "Help" in Photoshop, you are directed to the Adobe Help Center. You can filter help topics by type (photography, Illustration, Web, Video, etc.) and title, or you can scroll to find what you're looking for. There are also icons to take you to topics like tutorials, tutorials for web design, and the Photoshop CS6 manual. Don't worry about drowning; just start surfing. One thing that doesn't appear right away is that there are no chapters; it's just a list of topics. Let's see how to get around that. In the upper right-hand corner of the Help window, you'll see a little button to the left of the menu icon that says "Table of Contents." Click that button to get a full table of contents for Photoshop. This is the exact same thing as going to the TOC, or Table of Contents, in other Adobe programs. Once you have clicked on the Table of Contents button, you'll see a table of contents. Now you can click any topic you'd like to see how to use. And here are the topics: Photoshop CS6 Tutorials Illustrator CS6 Tutorials Photoshop Web Tutorials Photoshop CS6 New Features Photoshop CS6 GPU Acceleration Photoshop CS6 Design/Raster Workflow Photoshop CS6 New Tools Photoshop CS6 Workflow If you're already a Photoshop veteran, these links might be your favorites: Photoshop CS6 Tutorials Illustrator CS6 Tutorials Photoshop CS6 Web Tutorials Photoshop CS6 Design/Raster Workflow Photoshop CS6 New Tools Photoshop CS6 Workflow Photoshop CS6 GPU Acceleration Photoshop CS6 Design/Raster Workflow Photoshop CS6 New Tools Photoshop CS6 Workflow It's helpful to bookmark this page. If you keep it open in a browser tab, you can always be looking for help when you're ready to edit.

Diamond Tavern The Diamond Tavern is a historic commercial building at 72 Main Street (Maine State Route 32) in Mount Vernon, Maine. Built in 1814, it is an early and well-preserved example of a town commercial building. It was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 2013. Description and history The Diamond Tavern is located in Mount Vernon's downtown area, its north side on Main Street, across from the town common. It is a 2-1/2 story wood frame structure, with a gabled roof, clapboard siding, and a stone foundation. It has a front-facing gable-roofed ell extending to the right. Most of the side walls are fully enclosed, with glass-cased windows, except at the roof lines. The front facade has three entrances, two being doorways and one a window on the ground floor. Windows are topped by broad eave brackets. The roof is fully encircled by a broad boxed cornice, broken by three semicircular returns, with a broad dentil molding. The building's construction is uncertain, but it is one of the oldest commercial buildings in the town. Its builder is estimated to have completed it in 1814; construction of the Town Hall across the street was begun that same year, and finished in 1816. The tavern's first major owner was Harrison Smith, whose business card offered the tavern as an eating and drinking spot. The building was purchased in 1869 by A. W. Stone, and in 1896 by Henry Blanchard. The hotel closed in the 1940s. It is beginning to look a lot like Christmas. A group of Christians in Calgary have opened the doors of their Centre City store, Kelsey's, which they believe will be the largest Christmas store in the world. The Centre City Group store in Calgary will be the largest Christmas store in the world. (CBC) "We're the number one local store and we're in the number two local chain and we just decided to go to the next level. We're going to be Canada's largest Christmas store," centre city group president Geoff Bird said on Saturday. There are around 300 pieces of collectibles inside, including about 5,000 vinyl records, an assortment of candlesticks, lightings, ornaments, and snowflakes. The centre city group is a non-profit that is dedicated to boosting the role of the downtown in Calgary. "Our mission is to provide a downtown lifestyle for Calgarians to enjoy, in a safe, clean, appealing environment. I think that's what we are providing here today," Bird said. The centre city group purchased the townhouse that houses the store at 1009 4th Street. "It's a huge old home. It's a really nice house and I just want to give back to the downtown and make it a better place to live for everybody," said Albert Elias, who is leasing the house. I am not a blockchain person, let me be clear. I am not a founder, I am not a technologist, and I am not a regulator. As much as I have loved watching Bitcoin and Ethereum function, I am incapable of feeling the pain that they are trying to evade with each addition to their puzzle-tangled mythology. I have never known why they operate the way they do. I didn't understand the underlying logic of the Proof of Stake algorithm, and there are more layers to understanding than what I can process. I am also incredibly suspicious of the model that says I must "own" my data with a private key. Also, I am not a "blockchain evangelist." I think that it's overuse is antithetical to innovation, and I believe that the lack of innovation coming from this space is because of the command-and-control that threatens to make a blockchain solution what it was to the credit cards: deathly slow, expensive, and difficult to use. But I am at a point where I want to share what I have
