No, I'm not dead.
Sorry about that. My internet server went down because of a power surge, but now it's back up. I'm very lucky in that my boss has a REALLY good computer department. They not only fixed my server, but also took the time to go over everything with me and make sure that I had all my files backed up. Now that that's all taken care of, I can get back to my never-ending search for my next job. Part of that search involves looking for a part-time job. I kind of lucked out with the work I found as it allows me to stay home and spend more time with my family. Unfortunately, because of the nature of the part-time job, I'm spending a few hours a week doing something that I usually try to avoid. I hate having to answer phones because of the voices that I hear in my head. I'm surprised at the number of times I find myself asking people if they're interested in buying more than one or two cars. If I go to get auto glass for my son's car, I usually end up getting a few more vehicles in the deal. I don't even like talking about cars with anyone other than my husband. And even he gets a bad case of car psychosis when the subject is on the table. So, here I am, putting up flyers on the Internet for a part
