The CXCR5 inducible chemokine receptor CXCR5 critically regulates follicular dendritic cell-dependent humoral immune responses by controlling CD40 and ICOS signaling. B-cell activating factor (BAFF) is a potent survival factor for B cells and its receptor BAFF-R(+) signals play a critical role in the survival of naive B cells and mature B cells in the germinal centers. Follicular dendritic cells (FDCs) expressed CXCL13, the ligand for the CXC chemokine receptor 5 (CXCR5), in the germinal center and BAFF-R(+) B cells expressed CXCR5, which required BAFF-R(+) B cells to localize to the lymph nodes. Loss of CXCR5 or its ligand CXCL13 resulted in significant decreases in numbers of FDCs and of B cells in lymph nodes, which caused the reduced number of germinal center B cells and correspondingly poor anti-tetanus toxoid antibody responses. Analysis of BAFF-R(-/-) mice revealed that, in addition to B cells, FDCs are required for BAFF-R(+) cells to mediate B-cell immunity. Co-culture experiments showed that the residual B cells in the lymph nodes of BAFF-R(-/-) mice were less dependent on FDC-mediated signals, indicating that the residual B cells in these mice displayed a lower level of CXCR5 compared with wild-type B cells. These data suggested that CXCR5 on B cells controls BAFF-R-mediated signals that are required for optimal B-cell immunity.The Island (EP) The Island EP is a seven-song EP released by South African indie rock band King Krule on April 27, 2014.
