The study, released by the Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, said the quality of diet "is not high enough" to meet the health needs of the population. An 800-kilogram (1,763-pound) Chinese consumer would need to consume 1,633g of protein, 1,891g of fat and 829g of carbohydrates per day if he or she wants to have a healthy diet. A daily diet of 1,200 to 1,500 grams of protein, 700 to 900 grams of fat and 900 to 1,100 grams of carbohydrate is recommended by the government to meet the nutrition needs of a healthy individual. The latest study has revealed that the average daily intake of protein, fat and carbohydrate in China last year was about 1,000, 1,300 and 900 grams respectively, far lower than the recommended daily consumption levels. Quality and quantity of diet have dropped The quality and quantity of the Chinese diet has sharply declined over the past two decades, said Zhengdan Luo, an associate professor from the China Center for Disease Control and Prevention. "The average daily intake of energy, protein and carbohydrate in China dropped to 8,024kJ 1cdb36666
