The Code of the Gladiators is a Canadian television series that aired on the CTV Television Network.

The eight-part series is the third co-production of Powerade featuring the Code and is based on a virtual scavenger hunt. It first aired on October 13, 2008. The show is produced by Snowman Entertainment and Location One. The show is directed by Pierre Bennett and written by Michael Pierce and Pamela Fox. The vocal direction was provided by Glen Goliger. The series was cancelled after the eighth episode aired on December 13, 2008 after having aired for a total of eight episodes.

All footage is currently owned by Snowman Entertainment. Contents The Code of the Gladiators Premise The Code tells the story of four high school students who are abducted by the organization of ruthless and powerful villains. This group is so powerful that they control the largest corporations and governments on the planet. Their ultimate goal is to systematically rule over the world. They are determined to destroy anyone who stands in their way. So far, no one has managed to escape and stop them. When the four high school students are rescued by the Order of the Seekers, they begin the long and dangerous journey of trying to defeat the villains. Plot Outline The series starts with four high school students, Jack, Ben, Andy, and Sam, falling through a portal. As they enter, they start to hear mysterious sounds. The sounds guide them to the sewers. They are guided to a group of children who were trying to escape from some unknown evil organization. The children enter a room where the four are instructed to get ready to take part in the Code of the Gladiators. Once the four are ready, they climb on a beam and walk down a long metal tunnel, listening to the sounds of the children. Suddenly, they are grabbed by two very bad guys who look like the Joker and Harley Quinn. The story in the tenth episode makes the four realise that all of this is real and they all need to find their way to the next level. Plot In the first episode of the Code of the Gladiators, four high school students, Jack, Ben, Andy and Sam, find a portal in the middle of a snowstorm, and are taken into space. They soon realize that they have been abducted by the organization that is trying to take control of the planet. This organization is so powerful that they control the largest corporations and governments on the planet.

Bcl-2 family of proteins plays a key role in regulating apoptosis. Bcl-X(L) is a member of this family that has been shown to be a regulator of apoptosis in a number of tumor cell lines. In the present study, we found that cell treatment with 5'-azacytidine, an agent that inhibits HT-29 colon carcinoma cell growth, caused a decrease in the steady-state levels of Bcl-X(L) mRNA. This down-regulation in Bcl-X(L) mRNA was in part responsible for the decrease in Bcl-X(L) protein levels. The change in Bcl-X(L) protein was associated with a decrease in the levels of the endogenous inhibitor of caspase, ccbl. This suggests that c-cbl contributes to the increased levels of Bcl-X(L) protein in HT-29 cells.
Furthermore, a luciferase reporter assay established that Bcl-X(L) promoter activity was significantly decreased upon 5'-azacytidine treatment, suggesting that the reduced Bcl-X(L) protein levels in 5'-azacytidine-treated HT-29 cells was associated with a decrease in Bcl-X(L) transcription.
Modulation of Bcl-X(L) by 5'-azacytidine was also observed in other cancer cell types such as human melanoma and human promyelocytic leukemia HL-60 cells. The results indicate that 5'-azacytidineinduced growth inhibition is associated with a decrease in Bcl-X(L) expression in HT-29 cells.N-
