* Interface. The large, clickable painting brush icon helps jump-start your image-making experience by providing a tool for quickly applying textures or a pattern. Textures can be found in the Image > Texture menu. * Basic. This tab starts with the spot healing tool. It can erase a small portion of the image, and the Eraser tool can erase an entire image (which is good for black-and-white and grayscale images). You can always right-click with the Eraser tool to change the shape (how big or small), select a color (for color images), and even select a portion of an image to erase. * Colors. Colors tab, if you need help with colors. * Effects. When you open the effects filter, you find three tabs at the bottom of the window. These are the Selection tool (see the sidebar "The Selection tool"), an option for blending layers (see Chapter 5 for details), and a tab called Actions. If you're new to filters, you may want to stick with the Selection tool or the Basic tab. The Selection tool is discussed in detail in Chapter 5. An alternative to the Colors, Effects, and Basic tabs is the Layers panel. Not only can you locate your image and other elements in the Layers panel, you can also turn them on and off. Because the Layers panel is just a good, all-around better thing to work with, Chapter 5 covers it in depth. ## Work with a File from Another App When you're planning to shoot an important image, you may want to bring it with you so that you can work on it in real time and fine-tune your photographic vision. But what if your new super-duper Nikon camera doesn't have an internal memory card slot? What if you don't have a memory card on you? Fortunately, you can still work with the image by using a digital camera or smartphone. It's pretty easy: 1. Open the image in Photoshop. 2. Go to Image > File > Open. In the Open dialog box, navigate to the location where you want to save your image. Depending on what kind of image you've created, you might have an exposure adjustment or a filter applied (see the next section for details). 3. Click Open. The image

Chemotherapeutic agents in cancer treatment: effect of selected drugs on dentin-pulp complex. We investigated the effect of methotrexate, 6-mercaptopurine, all-trans retinoic acid and tamoxifen on the dentin-pulp complex of 12-week-old rats. The role of calcium ions in the interaction between the drugs and pulp was also studied. The drugs were intraperitoneally injected (1 mg/kg body weight) at the same time and 72 hr before sacrificing. For each rat, histological and histochemical sections were obtained from the maxillary and mandibular first molars. Light microscopy examination revealed that methotrexate destroyed the odontoblast processes, resulting in a decrease in collagen fibril and collagen matrix formation. Retinoic acid induced a substantial decrease in DNA synthesis and mineralization activity of odontoblasts. Tamoxifen was associated with only minimal effects on dentin matrix formation. Calcium ions can counteract the negative effect of the drugs on the dentin. In conclusion, methotrexate exerts a destructive effect on odontoblasts, while retinoic acid and tamoxifen do not affect the mature and developing odontoblast processes. The differences between the drugs and their ability to affect dentin provide valuable insights into the cellular mechanisms of cytotoxic and cytostatic drugs in the control of complex dental systems. When is a wedding the best kind of wedding? Gwen with her lovely bridegroom, Matt, When the bridegroom said, "Let's take the Rolls-Royce to our wedding!" I saw that and a part of me said, "That sounds like a really good idea!" Then, another part of me said, "Are you sure? We're not really going to need that?" The other part of me said, "Matt is a great guy, but how likely is it that he'll take us to the best restaurant?" Then the whole car was there, in this vast, light and plush office in the bowels of Morrisons. Matt got out and he was not the tallest person on the ground. I was probably about 5'1". He opened a door, there was this cool light and he waved us inside, then he was gone, and the door shut. About 4 months before we got married, we spent time in the US together. We had this lovely honeymoon in Maine, and we had walked through the 'cliffs of Dover' in the rain. We had seen the Statue of Liberty. I tell myself that those are the reasons why I fell in love with Matt. You'll probably have it down pat. You'll know the reasons why you fell in love with your wedding photographer. But, there's a reason why I've saved that story. I am a wedding photographer, and I want to tell you what the best kind of wedding is. To say, "I'll show you why I want to be your photographer". I'll tell you why it's not just professional to do photography. I'll tell you why a wedding photographer has to put more than just a flash in front of you. I'll tell you why I want to take you to the best restaurant in the world. All of which are going to make you smile. Whether it's whilst I show you why I want to be your photographer, or whenever you're a bride or groom looking for some photography, remember to smile. You're doing something really special. Your wedding day is going to be about
