The aim of this study was to review the results of surgical and endoscopic resection of gallbladder cancer in patients with liver cirrhosis. The records of 26 patients who had liver cirrhosis diagnosed by pathologic examination (n = 20) or clinical examination (n = 6) and underwent resection for gallbladder cancer between 1995 and 2005 were reviewed retrospectively. The median age of patients was 69 years. The operative findings included liver cirrhosis in all patients. The operative procedure was cholecystectomy in 20 patients and segmental resection of the liver in six. The postoperative morbidity and mortality rates were 35% and 9.1%, respectively. The median survival time was 14.5 months. Patients with a localized disease (n = 5) had a 5-year survival rate of 30% compared to 0% for patients with locoregional (n = 12) or distant (n = 9) involvement. Surgical resection and endoscopic therapy are the optimal treatment modality for gallbladder cancer in patients with cirrhosis. The results of gallbladder cancer resection in patients with liver cirrhosis depend on tumor stage and patients' physical conditions
